Bradstreet's Vermont Weekly Trade Report.

Bradstreet's Burlington office reports the amount of business done among lumbering interests compared reasonably well with the period for the season of the year. In the state there is an uneven demand among state consumers which corresponds with the amount of building work in progress. At the present there is an apparent general good demand at Brattleboro where more than an ordinary amount of work is being conducted. Jobbers and lumbermen in general reflect a fairly active market. There is a firmer price for spruce. Outlook for the near future appears reasonably good. House finish and cabinet work show a liberal demand. Furniture manufacturers report plants operated to capacity and considerable business ahead. There is a good demand for various classes of veneer and turned wood production is heavy. Manufacturers of silos report not as large a demand as was experienced for the same period of a year ago and attributes this to the smaller yield of corn. Manufacturers of piano bails indicate an active demand and plants employed to capacity. General retail business has been good, cooler weather has stimulated buying of seasonal goods. Both clothing and dry goods merchants report a good September trade. Larger cities have received considerable business from automobile parties. Some frosts have been experienced and did some damage to corn but as a whole the damage to this crop by frost has not been enough to count. Canners and packers speak of the yield as only fair. It is estimated the total crop this year will be from 25 to 30 per cent below what was recorded last year, but the yield of 1915, it must be borne in mind, was somewhat above the average. Apples are coming into the market and are of good quality. The crop is considerably in excess of last year. Potatoes are not as plentiful in certain sections as they were a year ago with the natural tendency of high prices. Collections vary from good to fair; in some instances renewals are reported. The week has been free from mercantile failures in the state.
